| 1. | Immediately following the military occupation of Rumania in August 1944, the Soviet Union launched a gradual campaign of transplanting Soviet citizens from Bessarabia to Rumanian territory. The Russians thus brought into Rumania were settled throughout the country, mainly in the zones which had been abandoned by Rumanians of German origin, the so-balled Siebenbuerger Sachsen and Banater Schwaben.* | | | |
| 2. | Under this program, the Soviets have brought into Rumania to date almost a million persons, and their number is being continually increased by additional arrivals from the Soviet Union. | | | |
| 3. | The persons brought to Rumania are furnished with Rumanian identification documents which identify them as Rumanian citizens. When questioned, they stated that they had been sent to Rumania because of the difficult food situation in the Soviet Union and as a premium for their work in the Communist Party or in the factories in which they had worke in the Soviet Union. | | | |
| 4. | They take part in no activity in Rumania and it is presumed that they are maintained by the Rumanian Government authorities. They are not given positions of a political character and are not known to carry on any intelligence activity. | | | |
| 5. | Rumanian circles are very worried by this slow invasion faring that indigenous Rumanians will soon be deported to the Soviet Union in substitution for further Soviet citizens. | | | |
| | Comment: Many of the Rumanians of German origin in Transplyania and in the Banat area were deported to the Soviet Unica during the latter part of 1944. | | | |
